Yousef and I were thrilled to be invited by Brien Foerster to be guest speakers, along with Stephen Mehler, on his September “Techno Spiritual” Tour of Peru and Bolivia. We were blown away by what we experienced and by the comparisons made between what we find at the ancient sites of Egypt with what we discovered there!

Egypt Fall 2014

Fall in Egypt is a wonderful time of year where we enjoy beautiful weather and amazing sunsets. Strangely, we haven't seen the surge in tourism that we all expected here. Apparently, the world's media reports of unrest in other parts of the Middle East have reflected back on Egypt yet again.

It is always surprising to us that people are afraid to return to this amazing land—when we experience nothing that is the least bit threatening in our own daily lives. It is sad that so many here suffer as their businesses fail, because of false fears encouraged by a worldwide media network that seems to want us to remain in our homes (wherever that may be!)

The threat of danger—of any kind, is relative. Many live in towns and cities where they avoid certain districts or they don't go into at night, because they feel they are not safe. The world's most tragic supposed "terrorist" incident occurred in New York City. Safety is relative. I honestly feel much more secure anywhere here in Egypt, at any time of day or night than I did living in most cities and towns that I lived in – in the USA. Most importantly, Egypt sees very little major crime in comparison to other countries.

Current political unrest is only reflected in areas that do not touch our lives here---and that are certainly far away from the places that tourists visit

Egypt remains a safe destination despite media reports. We see many of the sites restoring and opening new areas for what many believe will be a huge come back in tourism. If you feel called to come to Egypt, now may be the best time to come if you want to experience the sites without the distraction of large crowds!

Travel, Tourism Return to Egypt after Arab Spring

Article by Lark Gould

THE WASHINGTON TIMES - Monday, November 10, 2014

Travel to Egypt has always been an adventure, playing into an inner Indiana Jones that craves a chance to come face to face with the deepest mysteries of civilization. And in Egypt visitors will find them in plenty — in pyramids and cities of the dead dating back 4,000 years.

But travel to Egypt has become a mixed bag of late. American travelers and many U.S. tour operators pulled out of Egypt amid the roiling protests leading to revolution in what has become known as the Arab Spring. Two coups and three years later, the tourists are returning. While pyramids can wait, the demand for this destination cannot. The travel companies are coming back but the crowds, for now, are staying away.

“Egypt is really the cradle of civilization and there is a lot of pent up demand for it now,” says John Boulding, global CEO of Insight Vacations, which has been running tours to Egypt for 35 years. “Rome pales next to Luxor and the monuments you see there. And what an amazing time to see these treasures – at a rare time in history when there are no crowds and some very good deals. Egypt is a real magnet right now and we would say come back and before the crowds get there – it’s at vanguard of resurgence.”

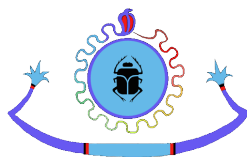

Many countries began lifting travel bans for Egypt this summer and, currently, only a conservative cautionary security message remains in place through the U.S. Embassy in Cairo, asking U.S. citizens to remain alert while traveling in Egypt.

There is an extra special sense of welcoming visitors are going to be experiencing,” says Mr. Boulding.

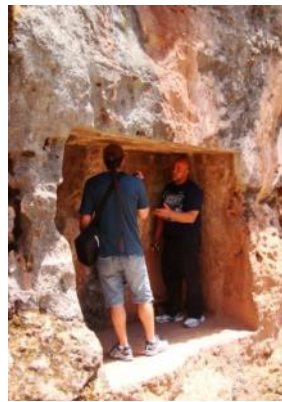

Egypt does not suffer from the same conservative Sharia laws that surrounding countries do. And although much about Western culture is well tolerated, guests will be asked to dress conservatively as a matter of caution and respect. Some of the street merchants can be aggressive, especially near top attraction sites and may be even more so given the dearth of tourism waves in the past three years. Insight’s experienced ground operators are usually able to abate these nuisances ahead of arrival.

“The time really is now,” adds Mr. Boulding, noting that neither the deals and values to be found now nor the pleasant lack of crowds to be found now at such places as the pyramids of Giza and the famed Egyptian Museum will last. Insight intends to open up its tour itineraries to such destinations as Alexandria and the Sinai once tourism to Egypt gets back to full swing.

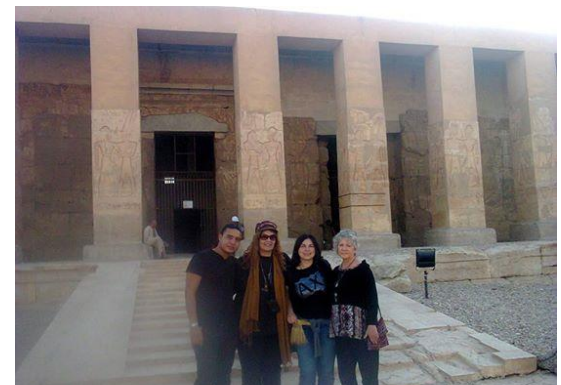

For now, it’s pretty good just to combine fascinating ancient history with what has become modern history in the making.

Our minds were blown away by what we discovered on our Journey in Peru and Bolivia led by Brien Foerster. Brien and his lovely wife Irene were fabulous guides and we were joined by a wonderful group of like minded souls!

Our October Journey to the Center of Yourself was an enlightening & magical experience and gave me the confirmation I needed to offer this incredibly powerful and transformative tour again next year!

Patricia is planning to host another Women's Tour - JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF YOURSELF II from NOVEMBER 6th – 18th, 2015 which will include an overnight stay in Minya to visit the "Healing Caves of Beni Hassan and Akhenaten's Amarna, and an overnight stay at a charming hotel in Abydos.

Our intention with these sacred tours is to take you on a journey of awakening. Much of what we think is "REAL" in our world--is not. We will examine our core beliefs and begin the process of releasing what no longer serves us. Patricia Awyan will give multiple lectures about the pantheon of Neters (Egyptian gods and goddesses) and the ancient symbolism --and how they collectively give us a map of the nature of our reality as well as the tools to raise our awareness and awaken our latent senses!

We will have workshops and meditations and utilize the energy of the sites to enhance and heal our body, mind and spirit--and raise our vibration.. We will practice resonant toning in special areas at some of the sites (and inside the King's Chamber of the Great Pyramid) where one cannot help but feel the transformation occurring within. We will release the old--and fill ourselves up with the unlimited potentials that are our birth right!

Testimonials from our October 2015 Journey to the Center of Yourself:

"We are getting the tip of the iceberg with you Patricia. You have so much depth, ready to be shared with like-minded women. This tour was supported by Yousef and Mohamed - but designed, directed and energetically guided by you. Your vision and creation of this tour was perfect for me.

The Presentation you shared with us over several hours, was just amazing. Succinct, professional and the subject matter is best experienced in Egypt to be deeply understood. How perfect to have this wisdom shared with us while cruising the Nile"

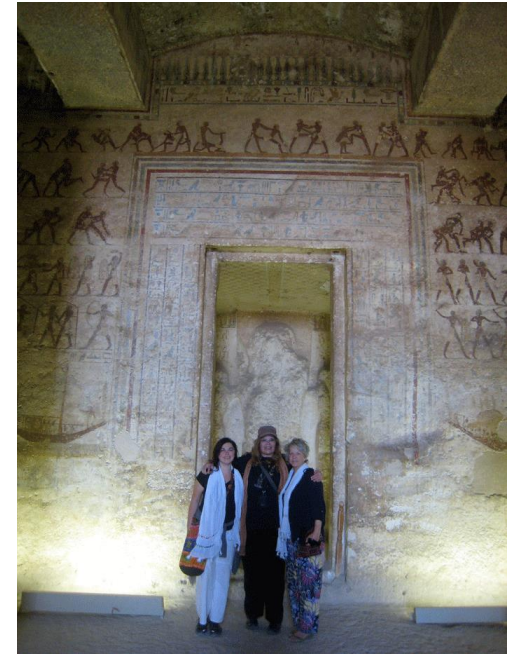

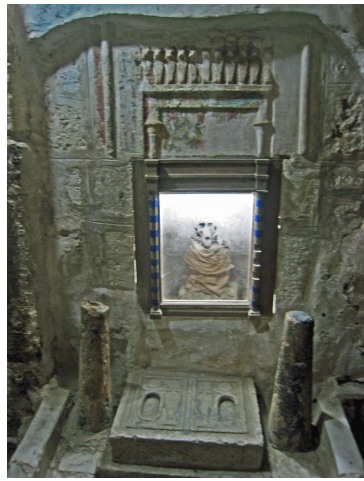

"I have already recommended this tour to like-minded people. They were spellbound about the activities provided and the unique experiences we had. (Two people intend to go on the November 2015 tour)." Lynn

"Patricia is an outstanding speaker. She conveys information usually difficult to understand in such a simple way understandable to everybody. Patricia's lecture opened my eyes on a complete different world. She manages in her lecture to link the dots of our reality. I truly believe that everybody would benefit in listening to her lecture."

"I certainly would recommend this tour to anybody who is on a personal journey and who is looking for answers within themselves. The tour allows letting go of things or beliefs that don't serve us anymore and helps to embrace the world of endless opportunities." Mara

March 21st – 24th, 2015 “Techno–Spiritual” Tour III - Ba’albek & Lebanon Extension

Open to Everyone!

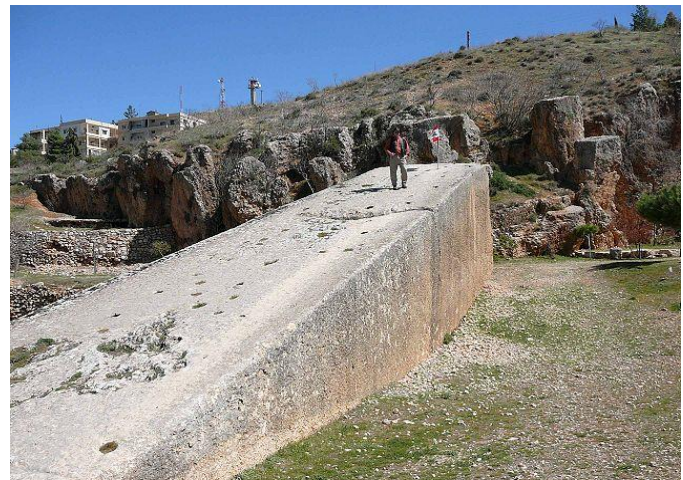

“Site Transformation” at Ba’albek and other sites in Lebanon that were inhabited by many different civilizations over thousands of years.

We’ll visit Ba’albeck and the Temples of Jupiter, Bacchus and Venus and the Stone of the Pregnant Woman. Known as Heliopolis, or the “City of the Sun” during Greco-Roman times, the site of Ba’albek shows much evidence that a more advanced civilization must have built and inhabited the area thousands of years earlier.

Archeologist and Khemitologist, Abd’el Hakim Awyan, maintained that very ancient Khemit (Egypt) extended well beyond its current borders and included Lebanon and the area known as Ba’albek. We will see the six remaining Corinthian columns of the Jupiter Temple, made from rose granite that was transported all the way from the Aswan Quarries in Egypt. Eight more were disassembled and shipped to Constantinople under Justinian's orders circa 532-537 CE, for his basilica of Hagia Sophia.

We’ll also be exploring the fabulous sceneries at the Jeita Grottos, one of the “New Seven Wonders of Nature”, located north of Beirut, the beautiful Phoenician city of Byblos, Harissa, a small mountain village and sacred pilgrimage site, Anjar, formerly known as Gerrha, a stronghold built by Umayyad Caliph Al-Walid ibn Abdel Malek in the 8th century, the caves at Ksara, known as Château Ksara and the National Museum in Beirut with its extensive collection of artifacts ranging in date from prehistoric times to the medieval Mamluk period.

Journey of Discovery led by Brien Foerster:
Evidence of a highly advanced Pre Incan civilization at sites in Peru and Bolivia!

Yousef and I were extremely grateful to be invited to join Brien foerster and his beautiful wife, Irene on his September 2014 “Techno-Spiritual Tour” of ancient sites in Peru and Bolivia, along with Stephen Mehler and an insightful group of like-minded individuals!

After witnessing Brien’s enthusiasm—and his lectures about these ancient “Pre-Incan” structures during our tours together here in Egypt these past two years, we were excited at the prospect of viewing and experiencing them for ourselves. We were not disappointed!

After flying into Lima, Peru, we met with the group and spent our first day visiting two museums. As a researcher of ancient symbolism worldwide, I was immediately struck by the similarities with ancient Khemit.

The relics in the museums and at the sites spoke to me of a reverence for our eternal cycles, as well as a deep understanding of our natural world and cosmic forces. We saw many feline images, as well as serpents and birds.

In fact from the very beginning until the end of our journey with Brien, we were amazed by the striking similarities with the mysteries and anomalies we find in Egypt. Below you see one example -of an image of a head dress found in Peru that is remarkably similar to the head dress of the Neter, Amun.

This journey, which we would recommend for anyone interested in the ancient mysteries in Peru & Bolivia, was jam packed with adventure and discovery! Just a few of the sites we visited include Coricancha, Sachsayhuaman, Tipon, Moray, Ollantaytombo and Machu Pichu in Peru—and Tiahuanaco and Puma Punku in Bolivia. Brien and Irene have a local knowledge that enabled us to visit little known sites and areas that few are aware of—even today!

We were literally blown away by the amount and diversity of megalithic stone structures that showed evidence of the use of advanced technologies. They were clearly more ancient than the Incan empire, who built their still impressive structures in the same locations—exactly like the Dynastic Egyptians. Although there were differences in technique, both cultures had capabilities to transport and reshape megalithic stones that are beyond the scope of our imagination.

What were these sites used for? We saw the same use of running water -apparent at all of these sites, that we also see in Egypt. We discussed the similar design in areas that could be used to enhance sound resonance. We recognized similarities with other megalithic sites worldwide—and yet there is uniqueness to the sites in Peru and Bolivia that sparked our wonder and amazement. Just as we experience here in Egypt: With every discovery and Ah Ha moment—we were left with many more questions than answers...

...and we can hardly wait to return to continue our research and exploration!
